Welcome to ISNVH and “The Sound of Silence”!

Sustainability, climate change and economic transformation are pushing the application of electric traction for ground vehicles. Although the electric and hybrid vehicle market is still at a relatively early stage of development, it is soon expected to substantially transform industries and communities and is anticipated to drastically reshape the vehicle NVH scenario as we have known it.

The challenges and opportunities associated with this new NVH scenario are the main theme of the ISNVH 2018 Congress. The coming years will be characterized by a rapidly growing market share of hybrid vehicles combining traditional IC-engine based technology with electric traction.

We cordially invite you to participate in this international exchange of engineers and specialists from industry, research centers and universities all around the world!

Topics:
- NVH for HEVs/BEVs
- Powertrain optimisation and refinement
- Modelling and characterization of intake/exhaust systems
- Flow noise and aeroacoustics
- Tyre-road noise
- NVH and friction modeling in contacts
- Pass-by and exterior noise simulation
- Sound absorption and insulation
- NVH trouble-shooting and problem solving
- Active noise and vibration control
- Noise quality and perception, sound design
- Transmission and drivetrain noise
- Full vehicle simulation and characterization
- NVH target setting
- Concept modeling and robust design
- HVAC acoustics
- Squeak and rattle

Sponsor Packages

The 10th ISNVH Congress is also offering a perfect opportunity to showcase your company, services and technologies on the exhibition floor at the congress | graz convention centre.

Three attractive sponsoring packages are available, offering a comprehensive placement of your corporate logo. E-Mail newsletters, the ISNVH website (www.isnvh.com) as well as program folders and other advertising materials will be provided. In addition, the event offers some more opportunities to showcase your company. As successfully launched in 2016, ISNVH 2018 again offers exhibitors the unique opportunity to present their company in designated time slots during the sessions.
